Flinders University is a globally focused, locally engaged institution with a reputation for excellence in teaching, learning and research.

A highly research active university, Flinders is finding solutions to the world's challenges and contributing to social, cultural, and economic growth. 90 per cent of our research has been ranked at or above world class by Excellence in Research for Australia (ERA).

Our research achievements are underpinned by a robust network of partnerships with organisations and industries and are an important part of Flinders' exceptional student experience.

Social equity is a core priority across our six Colleges. Whether it's research in disability and gender equality, access and equity in education, our important legal work, or supporting rural and remote communities to receive the services they deserve, through to the ground breaking research undertaken at the Southgate Institute for Health, Society and Equity, Flinders is helping to create a fairer society.

As an organisation Flinders is supporting gender equity in the fields of Science, Technology, Engineering, Maths and Medicine (STEMM) and is a founding participant in the SAGE (Science in Australia Gender Equity) project to promote women into senior STEMM positions.

Flinders' commitment to making a positive contribution to our world is evident in our strategic plan Making a Difference – the 2025 Agenda.

With a vision to be internationally recognised as a world leader in research, an innovator in contemporary education, and the source of Australia's most enterprising graduates, it underpins a culture that supports student and staff success, fosters research excellence that builds better communities, inspires education that produces original thinkers, and promotes meaningful engagement that enhances our environment, economy and society.

about CEDA

CEDA is a respected independent national organisation with an engaged cross-sector membership. More than 780 of Australia's leading businesses, organisations and academic institutions from around the country are members of CEDA. For more than 50 years, CEDA has delivered informed discourse and rigorous research to influence good public policy for Australia's economic and social development.

Membership

Organisations join CEDA because CEDA delivers exposure to high level thought leadership, timely briefings on issues of economic importance, access to networking and brand reach through sponsorship and hosting opportunities. In addition to high profile public events, CEDA also delivers regular member only events for employees of member organisations and exclusive Trustee only boardroom briefings for senior executives from member organisations. These provide a unique opportunity for peer-to-peer knowledge exchange and for speakers and attendees to talk candidly on issues.

Research and policy

CEDA's only agenda is to pursue good public policy to progress Australia's economic and social development. Since 1960 CEDA has produced more than 3000 publications, research reports and articles highlighting emerging issues and directions in a diverse range of policy areas. Research in 2018 will focus on inequality; community attitudes to economic growth and development; and a major review of the purpose of economic growth and development in Australia.
