keynote speaker

The Hon. Matt Kean MP

NSW Minister for Energy and Environment

Matt Kean is the NSW Minister for Energy and Environment, a portfolio that was first combined after the Berejiklian Government's re-election in March 2019.

Minister Kean was elected as the member for Hornsby at the age of 29. Prior to entering politics, the Minister, a chartered accountant, worked as a senior manager for Price Waterhouse Coopers.

Shortly after entering politics, he was elected to chair the NSW Parliament's Joint Standing Committee on the Office of the Valuer General where he led a major review of the valuation system used for land tax, council rates and compulsory acquisitions.

In January 2017, Mr Kean was elevated to cabinet as the Minister for Innovation and Better Regulation, giving him the opportunity to continue to be a champion for the little guy.

In his new role as Energy and Environment Minister, the Minister wants to ensure the community has access to energy that is affordable and reliable. He's also determined to tackle climate change and eager to leave the planet in a better state than the one we inherited.

Paul is a visionary leader focused on transforming TransGrid from a state owned corporation into a dynamic, customer focused, fully-privatised energy company. He has been working closely with the Board and Leadership team on a reinvigorated strategic direction, delivering the energy solutions of today and creating the new energy future.

The country is in the midst of a seismic energy transformation, and in this rapidly evolving environment Paul is leading TransGrid to develop a strong and sustainable national energy system that forms the foundation for Australia's continued economic prosperity.

A well-managed transmission network is the platform that can enable Australia's transition to cheaper, cleaner energy sources, and TransGrid under Paul's leadership, has made great strides in its journey to make this a reality for consumers.
